CMC INTRODUCES TRU-D SMART UVC

Conway Medical Center (CMC) is committed to patient safety and they want their patients and staff to have the safest environment as possible. With over $90,000 of funding through the CMC Foundation's Special Equipment Fund, CMC has invested in Tru-D Smart UVC—a safer and more effective way to eliminate pathogens within the hospital.

Tru-D provides thorough room disinfection by delivering chemical-free UVC energy to eliminate germs and bacteria, which results in a cleaner and safer hospital environment.

The use of UVC wavelengths, which are between 200 and 300 nanometers and capable of inactivating microorganisms, such as bacteria, viruses and protozoa - makes UVC energy an effective, environmentally-friendly and chemical-free way to eradicate dangerous microorganisms in any environment, but especially in hospitals that contain drug resistant superbugs including MRSA and C. diff.

Tru-D operates from a single position in the room to disinfect from top to bottom including shadowed areas. Once it is placed in the room, the operator begins the process remotely from outside the room. The Tru-D sensors measure the necessary amounts of UV energy needed to disinfect the room, compensating for room variables such as size, shape and contents, to deliver the precise amount of UV light to effectively disinfect the entire room. When the disinfection process is complete, Tru-D automatically shuts off and sends an audio or text message to the operator. The average time of disinfection ranges from 15-35 minutes. Tru-D documents disinfection results ensuring the entire room has been disinfected.

Tru-D is another example of CMC's continued commitment to implement innovative, cutting edge technology to bring better health to life and an example of how contributions from the community to the CMC Foundation are helping with this goal.
